

Resolutions in Different Coordinate Systems

Solution:

The correct answer is c.)

This is simply because the result we observe is always unique. (An interesting fact is that this is generally not the case in the quantum world.)