

“Thermal Contraction”!

Solution:

The correct answer is d.)

Liquid water reaches the highest density at 4°C due to its peculiar molecular structure and hydrogen bondings. This also may happen to rubber and some polymer.